Boston, MA. Thomson Reuters has recognized 12 Nixon Peabody attorneys as "Stand-out Lawyers." Honorees were nominated independently by clients for their exemplary service.

As part of Thomson Reuters' annual Sharplegal study, more than 2,000 senior in-house legal counsel in large organizations nominate up to three of the lawyers they have worked with in the past 12 months who stood out to them, and why. These lawyers are recognized for their impact on client satisfaction and advocacy, as well as for how emerging trends affect their ability to deliver results.

The Nixon Peabody "Stand-out Lawyers" come from a variety of practice areas and include:

- Anthony Barron, Construction & Real Estate Litigation
- J. William Codinha, Government Investigations & White-Collar Defense
- Laurie T. Cohen, Healthcare
- Gregg M. Dorman, Affordable Housing & Real Estate
- John C. Gatz, Intellectual Property
- Daniel J. Hurteau, Complex Disputes
- Vernon W. Johnson, Construction & Real Estate Litigation
- Lindsay Maleson, Healthcare
- Shahzad A. Malik, Corporate

- Susanna Mitchell, Affordable Housing & Real Estate
- Damian A. Myers, Corporate
- Andrew L. Share, Corporate
