Boston, MA. Nixon Peabody LLP is proud to again be named among U.S. News & World Report's best law firms to work for in the publication's 2026 "Best Companies to Work for: Law Firms" list.

Nixon Peabody has been rated as a leading law firm in consecutive years, based on factors that analyze how individual firms meet the needs and expectations of their employees, compared against their peers.

"We are proud to be recognized again this year by U.S. News. Honors like these attest to the talent of our people and the strength of our culture," said Stephen D. Zubiago, CEO and managing partner of Nixon Peabody. "Fostering a workplace where our people can learn, grow, and bring their best selves to work is central to who we are as a firm. That commitment enables us to deliver exceptional service to our clients every day."

According to U.S. News, the recognition builds on the publication's "Best Companies to Work For" lists by considering six key factors: the quality of pay and benefits, work-life balance and flexibility, job and company stability, physical and psychological comfort, belongingness and esteem, and career opportunities and professional development within each organization.

U.S. News partnered with Revelio Labs and SurePoint Technologies' Legal Insights to gather the relevant data, including employee sentiment and legal market research, to calculate the six metrics used in the list.
